Kadens Captured In Robbery Attempt

POLICE BEAT 'CRIME-WAVER' UNCONSCIOUS

Seize Criminal Wanted For Shooting at Crawford County Deputy.

NABBED IN CHICAGO

Deserter Called 'One of Most Desperate' Men During Manhunt.

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO — Irwin Kadens, 32, termed a "three-state crime wave" by J. Edgar Hoover, was captured today, police reported, when he attempted to hold up a currency exchange on the west side.

The operator of the exchange called police, who arrived in time to beat Kadens into unconsciousness.

Police of the nation were warned by Detroit authorities on Sept. 30 that Kadens was "one of the most desperate criminals at large today." They advised participants in the manhunt:

"Kadens will stand for no questioning by police officers. He has been answering the first question with gunfire."

Hoover said charges against Kadens included engaging in a gun battle with Deputy Sheriff Ralph Schreck at Bucyrus, O., on the night of Sept. 15 when he abandoned a stolen car and fled into a field under cover of darkness at the Point Place service station. Schreck had been tipped off that Kadens was trying to trade a live for some gasoline.

Lieutenant Joseph Fallon of Fillmore street police said Kadens was beaten on the head into unconsciousness by Patrolman Richard Nelson when Nelson found Kadens menacing employees of the exchange with a pistol.

According to Hoover, Kadens, previously a law-abiding husband and father of two small daughters, deserted the army at Camp Giant, Ill., on July 14 and on Aug. 16 burglarized the home of a Detroit policeman, taking a pistol, uniform badge and handcuffs.

Thereupon, Hoover related, Kadens embarked on a reign of terror that included one kidnapping, five rapes, 17 robberies (Continued on Page 3, Col. 8)

FBI IN SEARCH

Federal Men to Help Hunt Baby's Kidnap.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—At noon today the Federal Bureau of Investigation was to enter officially in the hunt for the woman who just a week ago entered St. Ann's hospital, threatened a nurse with a pistol, and kidnapped eight-month-old Daniel Scanlon from his crib.

Seven days after the abduction the crime automatically became a federal offense, with death the possible penalty for the kidnaper.

Columbus police still are without definite leads to the identity of the woman. The child's mother, 17-year-old Jane Scanlon, an employee of the hospital, remains hopeful that her son would be returned to her.

KING INJURED

Christian of Denmark Falls From Horse, Vichy Says.

LONDON—(AP)—King Christian X of Denmark fell from his horse some time this morning and was immediately taken to his castle, the Vichy radio said today in reporting what it said was an official announcement from Copenhagen.

The broadcast, picked up by Reuters, said that there was no indication of the extent of injuries to the 72-year-old monarch.

Senate's OK Of 18 Draft Due Tuesday

Leaders Hope to Send Bill to President This Week.

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON—(AP)—Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley, (D., Ky.) predicted today that an amendment to the "teenage draft bill" establishing prohibition in areas surrounding military and navy posts probably would be adopted "if it gets to a roll call vote."

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON—Senate leaders today promised early action on the bill to draft 18 and 19-year-olds in an effort to get it to President Roosevelt for his signature by the end of the week.

The house voted overwhelmingly 315 to 16, last Saturday to lower the draft age to 18.

Senate Democratic Leader Alben W. Barkley, of Kentucky said he would ask the senate to act "at the earliest possible opportunity."

OFFICER KILLS O. S. R. FUGITIVE

Deputy Fires 5 Shots After Convict Wounds Sheriff In Athens County House.

Alfred Wade, 21, Mansfield reformitory fugitive, was killed in a gun battle at Buchtel, Athens county, Sunday after he had wounded Athens County Sheriff George Bateman.

Sheriff Bateman was shot in the stomach with a 12-gauge shotgun when he and five other officers sought to arrest Wade. After shooting the sheriff, state highway patrolmen reported that Wade ran out of a rear door of the house where he was shot five times by Deputy Sheriff Frank Joyce and Patrolman Gerald D. Pryor.

Wade escaped from the Grafton honor camp last June 11, after being admitted from Athens county, Jan. 28, 1942, to serve one to 15 years on a charge of breaking and entering.

Sheriff Bateman was reported today to be in a fair condition in a Columbus hospital.

Bateman, who is 49, was formerly mayor and chief of police of Nelsonville, O. He was appointed Athens county sheriff in April 1942, succeeding the late Charles W. Bayless.

Mansfield Gives Early Response To Turning In Tires

Mansfield motorists are already responding to the government's call for extra tires, it was revealed today with the report that more than two dozen tires have been turned in at the Railway Express office, the established channel for receiving them, in the past week.

Tires may be brought to the express office or express employees will call for them within the city limits of Mansfield, employees said.

Willingness of Richland county motorists to cooperate in rubber conservation measures was indicated by the immediate response to the call.

Ceiling prices are paid for the tires. No deadline has been set for turning in extra tires. Motorists are permitted to have five in their possession.

JEWELS STOLEN

Wealthy Widow Reports Theft Of $350,000 In Gems.

EAST WILLISTON, N. Y.—(AP)—Nassau county police said today that Mrs. James N. Hill, widow of one of the founders of the Texas Oil company, had reported jewels valued at $350,000 were stolen from her home.

Mrs. Hill lives with 20 servants on a 120-acre estate called Big Tree farm at nearby Wheatley Hills.

WAR BOND TO BE AWARDED WEEK'S VICTOR

Weighing of Salvage Material Continues to Determine N-J Trophy Winner.

While weighing of scrap metal collected by Mansfield's 14 schools last week was in rapid progress today Superintendent W. L. Miller of Mansfield schools announced that this week's award will be a $25 war bond to the public school reporting the largest per capita collection.

In scattering reports being tabulated today by Carl L. Stough, county salvage chairman, Western avenue school, with an enrollment of 248, probably forged to the front with a collection last week of 29,600 pounds for a per capita gathering of 121.5 pounds toward winning the News-Journal trophy.

Preliminary figures show Buchtel school a close second with 28,070 pounds and a per capita return of 114 pounds from its 246 students.

The week's total already reported today were Bowman school 23,980 pounds by 864 students, 5,420 pounds by classes of John Simpson Junior high school and 20,640 pounds by Johnny Appleseed Junior high, and 22,960 pounds by Carpenter school pupils.

During the last week's scrap drive Bowman school reported 16,120 pounds, Simpson 12,700 pounds and Carpenter 4,730 pounds.

Stough reported today the Bellville students are nearing a record collection, with the same success being noted in Shelby.

Trucks today were hauling the scrap collection of St. Peter's Catholic school to a dealer's yard and this total is expected to be in the "startling" class.

GETS ORDERS

Fuel, Kerosene Registrars To Meet Wednesday.

Richland county rationing machinery for the consumer registration of fuel oil and kerosene will be outlined Wednesday night at a special training session for volunteer registrars to be held in the Chamber of Commerce assembly rooms.

Consumer registration in Mansfield and the county starts Thursday, Nelson Neff, chairman of the county rationing board, said today. It will be conducted locally at the rationing board offices, 43 North Mulberry street, while in the county it will be handled at the various school buildings.

Beginning Tuesday morning all dealers must register the amount of fuel oil and kerosene they have on hand at the board offices. Dealer registration continues through Wednesday. The training session for volunteer registrars is scheduled for Wednesday at 7:30 p. m.

OHIO OFFICER KILLED

MIAMISBURG—(AP)—First Lieutenant Harold Robinson, 27, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Robinson, of Miamisburg, was killed in the crash of a training plane near Bakers Field, Calif. Private John Bernier, 25, also was killed.

Willingness of Richland county motorists to cooperate in rubber conservation measures was indicated by the immediate response to the call.

Ceiling prices are paid for the tires. No deadline has been set for turning in extra tires. Motorists are permitted to have five in their possession.

OWI Tells What's Bad And Good About U. S. Warplanes

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON—Coupling unvarnished criticism of American fighter planes with an overall analysis of all army and navy air types, the office of War Information concluded today that "on average the combat performance of United States aircraft was good" and improving.

In a 10,000 word report to the public designed to dispel the fog of confusion concerning American planes, OWI said "the truth lies between the two extremes" of adverse and favorable criticisms.

Specifically, the document said, 1. The Curtiss P-40, Bell P-39 (Airacobra), and North American P-51 (Mustang), standard army fighters already in action, have many good points but are definitely inferior to foreign types in high-altitude combat. Improved types are in production but haven't been battle-tested yet.

They Guide U. S. Fire On Japs

With tension growing as a Japanese attack seemed more likely, these American soldiers on Guadalcanal have a tougher job. They're artillery observers on a barren ridge, some 1,500 feet ahead of American lines on the island. With a full-scale land, sea and air battle developing between American and Jap forces, key posts like this are necessary for accurate artillery fire.

City, County School Heads Differ On '6-4-4' Proposal

Mansfield and Richland county education today were divided in their opinions toward a proposal to abbreviate education because of the pending lower draft age legislation.

Robert Hutchins president of the University of Chicago, contends that it is possible to complete education at an earlier age by means of his "6-4-4 plan" under which the student spends six years in the grades, four in high school and four in college.

Superintendent W. L. Miller, of the Mansfield schools, expressed the belief that the idea was not practical to general use, explaining that "Hutchins was an unusual child and he still believes others to be capable of doing what he did."

Superintendent Donovan Rummel, of Bellville, president of the Richland County Superintendents organization, held a similar opinion. "Children are not capable, assuming physically or mentally, of assuming advanced studies at earlier ages," he opined.

On the other hand, County Superintendent Boyce Robinson said he believed the average student could complete both his high school and college work in less time than is required at present although the transition of pupils from grade to grade would be more difficult.

A child entering school at six does not hit his stride and do his best work for a year or so, Robinson explained, and likewise more mature students in high school and college adapt themselves more readily to the changed curriculum.

Schoolmen generally seemed inclined to agree with Mr. Miller's statement that "education is an experience that cannot be evaluated in years" although many were of the opinion that some more or less non-essential subjects could be eliminated during the present emergency.

FAMINE STRIKES

Thousands Dead, Millions of Chinese Without Food.

CHUNGKING—(AP)—Stricken by one of the worst famines of modern times, Chinese are dying by thousands in the battle-fied province of Honan where 6,000,000 persons are reported officially to be on the verge of starvation.

Reports brought to Chungking by officials of the government and relief workers said that 18,000,000 have become famine refugees and that the clogged roads from Honan into Szechuan and Hubei provinces are strewn with the dead and dying.

The famine was attributed in part to two years of drought conditions, crop-killing spring frosts and locust and rabbit plagues, but this was coupled with the Japanese invasion of some districts last October.

CUT OUT A CAN

WPB Asks Curtailment of Food Buying to Save Metal.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—America's 31,000,000 families today were asked by the war production board to reduce their purchases of canned goods by one can per week.

Co-operation in the "one-can-less-per-week" campaign, the WPB said, would mean the diversion to the war effort of nearly 190,000 tons of steel, more than 2,600 tons of tin, and 77 tons of rubber.

The 10,000-ton Nazi man-of-war was driven to suicide in Montevideo harbor on Dec. 17, 1939, after losing a running battle to the British in the Atlantic.

URGES WATER, MILK TESTS TO HALT TYPHOID

Health Commissioner Says Fever Cases in Ontario Area Reach 18.

MORE WELLS POLLUTED

Five Ordered Abandoned Until Purification Steps Have Been Taken.

Home owners and cow owners of Richland county, especially in the Springfield township—Ontario area, today were urged to have milk tests by Samuel Young, department milk sanitarian, since the outbreak was discovered 10 days ago. Young is available at all times, Dr. Wild said.

According to Dr. Wild, city-county health commissioner, only two cow owners have asked for milk tests by Samuel Young, department milk sanitarian, since the outbreak was discovered 10 days ago. Young is available at all times, Dr. Wild said.

Meanwhile, state health laboratory tests showed two more polluted wells in the area, bringing to five the number ordered abandoned until approved purification methods have been applied. Three dug wells showed pollution in the analysis of water samples Saturday.

Laboratory reports were negative for typhoid fever and undulant fever on cultures taken from 10 school cafeteria workers, according to advice to Dr. Wild from state officials today. The cafeteria was closed last week by Springfield township officials.

Disposal of garbage by complete burning or deep burial is urged by Dr. Wild who stressed the vital need of early recognition of any illness and its immediate report to a physician as a cooperative means of checking the fever epidemic.

Penes, church socials and similar gatherings in the Ontario region are advised against by the health commissioner during the current typhoid campaign.

7,500 Watch CAP Drills, Mansfield Wins Two Awards

Mansfield fliers annexed two awards Sunday at the Civil Air Patrol mobilization and air show at Municipal airport.

A crowd estimated at 7,500 watched the exhibition staged from 12 to 5 p. m. by patrols from Lorain, Sandusky, Marion and Mansfield districts.

Fifty Mansfield CAP members, largest delegation in competition, won the award for drill and a Mansfield team composed of Lieut. Robert Hunt and Lieut. Otis Cummins won the award in message dropping and pick-up. Prizes were CAP plaques.

Plaques were also won by a Marion group, composed of Al Mulberg, pilot and William MacAdams, bombardier, both of Galston, for a bombing precision mission, a Sandusky team of three for formation flying and a Lorain group for interceptor bombing.

Several Galion men participated with Marion and Sandusky patrols. Besides Mulberg and MacAdams, a Sandusky team of three for formation flying and a Lorain group for interceptor bombing.

Use Planes to Slow Expected Island Attack

Germans Gain At Stalingrad But Russians Take Usual Toll.

BULLETIN
MOSCOW—(AP)—Soviet forces reported today they had yielded another rubble-filled square block in northwest Stalingrad under Nazi pressure but said a Red army counter-attack was making headway south of the battered city.

(By Associated Press)
MOSCOW—German troops, advancing over the bodies of hundreds of their dead, added a new block of Stalingrad's crumbling buildings to their holdings within the city today as the Russian defenders moved in fresh troops in a desperate effort to blunt and defeat the latest Nazi assault, now in its sixth day.

Earlier reports had placed the fiercest fighting in the besieged city in the northern factory area and it was assumed that the new German gun was registered here.

"Hundreds of enemy dead were left in the street and 18 tanks were knocked out," the mid-day communique said.

Fourteen German planes supporting the German assault were brought down by Red pilots and anti-aircraft fire, the communique said.

The fighting northwest of Stalingrad was only of local importance, the communique said.

Red army troops resting the German drive toward the Grozny oil fields in the Ozdok region wiped out three companies of German infantry and destroyed 11 tanks in repulsing an attack there, the mid-day communique said.

The fighting in the Caucasus, at Moxdok and Novorossisk, was pushed into the background by the dramatic defense of Stalingrad.

Yesterday alone, said the mid-night Soviet communique, 2,500 (Continued on Page 3, Col. 1)

Guadalcanal Forces Dig In; Planes Bring Down 16 Japs.

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON—Fending off aerial attempts to soften them up, American forces entrenched on Guadalcanal island braced themselves today for an expected full-scale assault by large numbers of Japanese land fighters.

As the enemy moved his artillery into position and placed troops and equipment at strategic spots along the island's north shore, General MacArthur's headquarters in Australia sent out four waves of heavy bombers to harass Japanese supply lines and depots in a wide sweep over the northwest Solomons.

Whether the vigor of these bombings, coupled with the devastating reception accorded enemy raiders over Guadalcanal, was delaying a frontal assault by land troops could only be conjectured. Heavy concentrations of supporting enemy ships in the Buna-Shortland area to the northwest were the special target of Allied bombers which were believed to have hit three cruisers and several other vessels.

A communique from MacArthur's headquarters, reporting the second successive night attack on Buna, said the air-drops used by the Japanese in their Solomon operations was bombed heavily.

After fighting up the crowded harbor with parachute flares, the Allied raiders spilled 22 tons of bombs, including many thousand-pounders, on the enemy ships. In the last of the four attacks a cargo vessel was strafed and set afire and seven flying boats were destroyed or damaged.

"The last raid saw enemy vessels burning fiercely as the result of earlier attacks," the communique said.

MUTINY: German Troops In Norway Reported In Revolt

(By Associated Press)
LONDON—Mutinies, desertions, suicides and general lowering of morale are on the increase among the 200,000 German troops of occupation in Norway, the Norwegian government-in-exile was informed today in fresh reports brought out of the homeland.

Two large concentration camps were reported opened for mutineers along the Finnish frontier and at least 1,400 Nazis were said to be confined in one of them.

One authoritative account said that 1,000 German soldiers stationed north of Kirkenes rebelled against an order for them to go to Russia and that one of every ten was ordered executed. The order had to be countermanded, this report went on, because Nazi firing squads refused to shoot the men and the rebels were sent to concentration camps instead.

Accounts of Hitler's troubles within his own army were coupled with growing unrest among the conquered peoples of Europe rebelling at the Nazi campaign to recruit labor for war industries.

German and Italian troops were said to have fired on a crowd of Greek transport workers in Athens.

Evidence of increased German pressure was particularly strong in unoccupied France, where 500 Gestapo agents were said to have been assigned to rounding up workers to be sent to the reich.

The fighting French news agency said the Vichy government, unsuccessful in its efforts to recruit enough workers to satisfy German demands, had agreed to naturalize the secret police agents to facilitate their work.

This reported move coincided with an announcement by Paris radio that registration of all men between 18 and 50 for forced labor would begin today in the unoccupied zone. Women between the ages of 21 and 35 also are subject to call.

The Vichy radio, meanwhile, broadcast a warning to Frenchmen declaring it was their duty (Continued on Page 3, Col. 3)

THREAT: Japs Report Severe Punishment Of Captured Fliers

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK—The Japanese, pursuing some devious propaganda purpose not immediately apparent, reported today that United States airmen had been captured during the raid on Japan April 18 by planes under Brig. Gen. James H. Doolittle's command, and would be "severely punished" for "inhuman acts."

General Doolittle declared after his return from the raid in May that not a plane was lost in Japan. One American plane came down in Russia and the crew was interned there.

The Japanese maneuver became known when the German radio broadcast an announcement by the Japanese home defense headquarters.

This announcement said that members of the United States group which bombed Japan in April had been captured and convicted and "would be severely punished in accordance with international law."

The Japanese military spokesman was quoted as charging that the American airmen deliberately bombed civilians and machine-gunned school children.

The Japanese claimed some time after the raid that nine American bombers were brought down.

GALION TRAIN, AUTO COLLISION FATAL TO ONE

Driver Escapes With Slight Injury, Ordnance Worker Killed in Crash.

GALION—One man was killed and another injured Saturday night as the result of a train-auto collision at county line road one mile south of Galion.

Robert Lee Patrick, 18, of Saylesville, Ky., a passenger in the auto died a short time after he had been taken to Galion city hospital.

James Furniss, Marion R. D. 3, driver of the car was severely shaken up. He was released from the hospital yesterday.

Parts of the Furniss automobile were thrown 200 feet and the rear of the vehicle was completely crushed, according to Police Chief Merle Dow, who investigated the crash. The accident occurred shortly after 10 p. m. and tied up traffic on the railway for an hour and a half.

The car was struck by New York Central passenger train 424 which was brought to a stop a short distance from the crossing. Trainmen took the injured men to the East Church street crossing in Galion from where they were removed to City hospital in an ambulance.

Patrick died shortly after arrival. He was a materials checker at the Scioto Ordnance plant in Marion, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Patrick, of Saylesville, Ky.

The body was removed to Saylesville where services will be conducted Wednesday.

GALION COUPLE HURT IN AUTO CRASH ON MANSFIELD STREET

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Pollack, 352 West Atwood street, Galion, were recovering today from cuts and bruises suffered when their car rammed the rear of an automobile driven by Mary Myrtle Younce, also of Galion, at a traffic light at Park avenue west and Western avenue in Mansfield Saturday night.

Esther Miller, 151 East Third street, last night shifted her car into reverse instead of forward, she told Patrolman Letizia, the consequence being slight damage to the parked car of Homer F. Bottomly, 122 Snyder street, which was parked at Fourth and Foster streets.

Willard W. Martin, Lucas, and Ben H. Potts, Marysville, told Patrolman Hecht their cars were damaged slightly in a collision at Park avenue east and Bushnell street.

Both cars were badly damaged. Frank Beymer, 211 Marlow road, told Motorcycle Patrolman Arthur Conrady that a tractor-drawn trailer operated by Lloyd Buchan, Youngstown, swayed against his auto at South Main street and Augustine avenue, causing slight damage.

Slight damage but no injuries were listed in collisions between autos of Kosta Paulo, 19 Crystal street, and Edward Eder, 397 Grace avenue, at North Park and Main streets; and L. T. Eyerly, 441 McPherson street, and Mary Partenhimer, 502 Forest Hill road, at Mulberry and Fourth streets. Motorcycle Patrolman Richard Hecht reported.

Two Views Of Flood-Swept Potomac Basin

Flood waters of the Potomac and Shenandoah rivers marooned elderly Mrs. Kate Marks (top) until rescue workers arrived in a rowboat. They are shown putting her ashore after she had been taken from her home. Half-submerged, a freight train lies in the flood waters of the Potomac after a river bank gave way near Washington (bottom). After reaching new record high levels, the flood waters began to recede.

Army Shows Her Gas-Savers But First Gives Beep Ride

(By Staff Correspondent)
COLUMBIA, S. C. — Motors, horses, trucks, bicycles, wagons, beeps. Yes, beeps. And gas rationing started it all.

The beep, to a soldier is the son of a jeep. A jeep weighs 4,460 pounds, whereas a beep weighs only one-quarter of a ton. This little kiddie car can do everything but climb trees and if a sloping tree got in its way it'd be a push-over.

Fort Jackson's Maj. Charles Howard took me for a "mild" cross-country ride in the son of a jeep, in which he takes a wholly unholy glee in careening about.

We didn't bother with such pantsy-waist stuff as going around the mountain. We went over it, ignoring the natural phenomena of boulders, trees and ditches. Of course, it wasn't a big mountain. But then, it wasn't a big jeep, either.

Goes In Reverse.

The major at one point nosed over a five-foot (or was it 550?) bank and stopped with the beep's blunt snout helplessly staring the good earth right in its face. His passengers didn't stare anything in the face. They shut their eyes and hung on for grim death.

Pausing not to reason why, the major muttered, "This thing oughta go up that backwards," and forthwith put 'er in reverse.

The son of a jeep called on an extra and untied muscle in its rear axle and, complaining bitterly in its innards about any army that traveled backwards, slithered its precarious way over the crest of the embankment.

As we were saying, 17 states are singing the G. R. Blues. Not so the Army. Fort Jackson was ordered in April to cut its gasoline consumption by 50 per cent. It reduced the amount almost that much in May and June and more than half in July.

Beeps Easy On Gas.

But business continues as usual, as efficiently, as fast.

There are two reasons for this. One is organization. The other is a return to the horse, buggy and bicycle.

First step was to reduce the number of administrative trucks and passenger cars. Forty-three were turned in to the district board of maintenance. When new ones were issued they were jacked up. Dual and spare tires were removed from all vehicles and stored in cool dark places.

The motor transportation division set about making one trip replace two or three and hauling less passengers to fewer places.

Beeps, ordinarily a reconnaissance command car, run 35 miles to a gallon of gas, and thus have been impressed for errand duty. Twenty-seven bicycles were obtained and a requisition has been entered for 20 more.

Wagons Replace Trucks.

Major Howard, head of the division, put into effect various gas saving measures, such as banning Jack rabbit starts and stops. No government vehicle is authorized to travel more than 40 miles per hour under any conditions.

The major also suggested a warming up period for motors during both hot and cold weather, two and one-half and five minutes respectively.

Now, add to the cut in indiscriminate use of gas consuming motor vehicles—10 escort, three mountain, three hospital and one buckboard. They are used on patrol duty, for carrying food, produce, weeds, trash, laundry and ice, among other things. These formerly were hauled in trucks.

Most of the wagons are pre-World War I vintage. They were rescued off the salvage dump, repaired, repainted and put into service—pure profit all around.

Use Ex-Cavalry Horses.

Capt. Vardell Nesmith, in charge of the mounted police detachment stables (famously known as the horse pool) said his 17 wagons and 550 horses are saving almost 100 gallons of gasoline a day.

When you call a funeral director, your telephone call is an order to proceed with a service that frequently is a major investment.

Because lack of information has forced many families to act blindly in this important matter, Finerock Funeral Service offers facts to all who desire such information.

In these messages we have set forth many items of interest to families who may at any time require funeral service. . . . More than that, we invite any question about funeral service and its cost. Inquiries carry no obligation.

Army Shows Her Gas-Savers But First Gives Beep Ride

The horses once belonged to the 102nd Cavalry, one of the few remaining horse divisions in the country when it was mechanized two months ago.

Fort Jackson has cut its fuel consumption 50 per cent. They're proud of themselves, out there, they think it's swell.

Nobody knows what the horses think, although one of the former proud cavalry steeds—now assigned to garbage hauling—is understood to have bitten the nails right off his shoes the other day.

TIMES SURELY HAVE CHANGED!

HOLLYWOOD, Cal. — (U.P.) — Dr. Karl M. Bowman, psychiatrist, says the public is confused. One of the reasons, he said, is that if 20 years ago a man walked down the street with a $5 gold piece in one hand and a bottle of whiskey in the other, the whiskey could have brought him a jail sentence.

Now, if he walks down the street with the same article in his hands, it is the $5 gold piece which gets him in trouble.

People, he said, are asking themselves how it got that way and cannot find out.

U. S. SHOWS BIG INTEREST IN THE STUDY OF PORTUGUESE

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON — Once regarded as among the poorest linguists in the world, thousands of United States citizens now give evidence of becoming bi-lingual, or even tri-lingual.

Colleges and universities have reported unprecedented demands for courses in the Spanish language, and a governmental survey recently undertaken reveals enrollment of Portuguese language students increased 172 per cent over last year.

Three leading Washington universities reported the number of students enrolled for instruction in Portuguese is double that of a year ago.

It was also reported that students from every department of the United States government are enrolled for instruction in Portuguese at the Agriculture Department's Graduate school.

The rate of increase in the government school, according to Dr. R. d'Eca, director and former resident in Brazil, is more than 100 per cent.

Dr. d'Eca believed this rate would be a conservative estimate for the entire country.

Study of the language spoken by nearly half the people of South America extends far beyond the classroom, it was pointed out. The largest group, according to estimates, is composed of men and women who see a business advantage in acquiring it. The group includes business men, bankers, secretaries, stenographers and men and women engaged in the export and import trade.

The second largest group, it was said, is made up of officers and enlisted men in the army, navy and air corps. Students in colleges and universities constitute the third group.

The Office of the Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs cited several reasons for the rapid increase in Portuguese language studies.

"The obvious one, of course," it was said, "is a recognition shared by all the peoples of the Americas that the time has come for getting together, talking things over and becoming good friends and good neighbors."

Likewise, the United States, a young republic itself whose varied and numerous opportunities have absorbed its people's interests, became aware in recent years of its ignorance of neighboring nations.

While it is granted that much interest and enthusiasm in Brazil—where Portuguese is spoken—springs from trade and industrial possibilities, it was pointed out that the United States citizen is an inveterate "tourista."

"Outside the fields of geography, economics, even war," the Coordinator's office said, "Brazil holds an attraction that pulls strongly, prompts young and old, great and small among 'Norteamericanos' to learn the Portuguese language."

Learning the language and history of Brazil, the United States citizen intends some day to visit the country.

"The desire grows with every new discovery of the beauties, wonders and mysteries of the fabled Portuguese."

To meet the demand for knowledge of Brazil, colleges have increased by 240 per cent courses offered in Portuguese. Students preparing to teach have increased 257 per cent, faculty members 100 per cent. The slogan is "Aqui se fala português."

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

The kind of golf you dream about, sitting on the clubhouse porch, seems to have been just the kind Johnny Kleshinski fired recently over the sand dunes of an unnamed Atlantic outpost.

And I understand it's the first time John has shot a golf since he played a year ago in the News-Journal "A" league as Possum Run.

On a par 70 course, with the course record set at 67, Kleshinski batted out a 65, and complained that he was unable to make the ball stick on the sand greens.

But tune in on John's letter:

Dear Rex: First of all I want to thank you for the article you had in the paper not very long ago about me.

Since then I moved, and I'm near that golf course I was talking about, which is now practically in my backyard.

A couple of weeks ago I went out and played 18 holes, on special permission from my commanding officer, and was I ever happy to get hold of a golf stick again.

The sergeant at the clubhouse allowed me to use his clubs, which I did very well. I played the outside in 33 and the inside in 34 for a 67. The course record is 65 and par is 70.

Not bad for me since I left Irish Magee's course back home. Maybe some day when we all get back we will have a great old time again at Possum Run.

By the way, Mel Alacca from home is down here with me, and we played with a couple of guys from Cleveland and Columbus. And they were good too.

I forgot to mention the wonderful sand greens they have, if you can make a ball stick on them you're lucky.

Besides golf, I have been going to shows on my nights off, on an average of about every third day. Also playing volleyball, horse shoes, and above all, cleaning my equipment for Saturday inspection.

Boy am I ever relieved when Saturday morning's over.

Adios Private Johnny

John has been stationed in Puerto Rico for many months, but since his transfer his letters bear no address beyond:

Bearcats Take Top Ohio Spot

But They're Due For Trimming By Georgia.

By WILLIAM J. STRINGER
COLUMBUS —(UP)—Those bustling Bearcats from Cincinnati, who have been able to do about anything with a football but eat it, probably will have the pleasure of sitting atop the Ohio College football heap just five more days.

The Cincinnati, whose powerful and well-balanced club crashed into the state's number one spot a week ago, more than likely will lose their temporary lead over the Buckeye loop this week-end.

They take on flatfooted Frankish Sinkovich and his tough Georgia playmates Saturday at Cincinnati in one of the state's headlines. The week's 18-game card will see three other of Ohio's undefeated teams risking their perfect records.

The fifth undefeated Buckeye team, Otterbein, has an open date this week.

Cincinnati, principally a freshman-sophomore club, ran and passed its way to a 26-7 victory over the previously undefeated, unscathed Ohio University Bobcats Saturday. It was Cincinnati's fourth straight win and Ohio's first loss in three starts.

The Bearcats' power and versatility which gave them wings earlier over Louisville, Western Reserve and Centre college, is apparent in the Cincinnati's season point total of 116 to their opponents' 14. However, Cincinnati will be stepping out of its class when it meets Georgia.

The Georgians added another impressive victory to their string of wins last week-end with a 40-0 trouncing of Tulane.

Ohio University's untimely defeat, together with Capital's 32-7 fall before a powerful Ohio Northern club, knocked a pair of perennial contenders into a cocked hat. Capital and Ohio not only had been undefeated but had previously maintained unblemished goal records.

Their defeat leaves only Ohio State, Cincinnati, Otterbein, Case and Wilberforce in the undefeated column. All Buckeye teams now have been scored on.

Ohio State whipped a stubborn Purdue team 26-0 to remain on the credit side of the ledger with an unbeaten record. Case recorded a 15-0 triumph over Wooster and Otterbein squeezed past the three-beaten Miami Naval Trainers 7-0 to keep perfect records.

Delaware, Rio Grande, Akron and Bluffton, all of which have yet to win a game this season, are still victory hungry.

In Ohio conference play Otterbein, Case, Denison, Ohio Northern, John Carroll and Toledo are the top rankers. None has been defeated in loop competition and Case with one conference victory in one try, is the only unscathed club.

Otterbein has taken three, Denison and Ohio Northern two apiece, and Toledo one in conference competition.

This week's grid card in addition to the Big Ten Ohio State Northwestern situation will see five Ohio conference games played.

John Carroll takes on undefeated Case which, in winning its three games, has rolled up 45 points to their opponents' 45. Baldwin meets Wittenberg at Springfield Findlay takes on Capital at Columbus Mount Union tangles with Heidelberg and Muskingum encounters Wooster. All are conference tilts.

This week's schedule
Thursday—Genova at Youngstown (N)
Friday—Bluffton and Ohio Northern at Kenton (N) John Carroll at Case (N)
Saturday—Baldwin-Wallace at Wittenberg, Miami at Bowling Green Findlay at Capital Georgia at Cincinnati Xavier at Dayton, Denison and Miami Naval Trainers at Hamilton (N) Mount Union at Heidelberg Kenyon at Hiram, Western Reserve at Kent State Muskingum at Wooster, Oberlin at Swathmore Ohio State at Ohio University Marshall at Toledo Wright Patterson Field at Defiance
(N)—Denotes night games

KEEP STREAK GOING IN FINAL SECOND

BALDWIN, Kas.—(UP)—Only one second remained in the game between Baldwin and Spring Hill and it looked like the home team's 28 game winning streak was ended. The score was 0-0.

But the center beat the time-keeper's gun and flipped the ball in time for completion of a 13-yard forward pass and victory No. 29, 6 to 0.

Buckeyes Out For Revenge

Prepare Defense For Graham Triple-Threat.

COLUMBUS —(UP)—Ohio State's undefeated Buckeyes begin work today in an effort to settle an old score with Coach Lynn Waldorf's Northwestern Wildcats.

Otto Graham and a tough pack of Northwesterners came to town about a year ago and delivered a 14-7 defeat to Blough Brown's Buckeyes, the only blotch so far on Brown's coaching career at Ohio State.

"We've been waiting for this game a year and we'll be out there to win it if we don't win another game all season," Brown said.

The Buckeyes will go into the game at Evanston, Ill., Saturday slight favorites because of their smashing 26-0 victory over the Purdue Boilermakers, Purdue upset Northwestern earlier 7-6.

Ohio State came out of the Purdue tilt without serious injury and should be in good shape for the Wildcats.

Northwestern, hurt seriously by a manpower shortage, is relying heavily on last year's reserves and sophomores. Only four of the Wildcats' men who started in Northwestern's final game last year are back in action this year.

The principal one that the Buckeyes remember, however, is Graham, a triple-threat. Graham is a dangerous passer and the Wildcats boast a terrific passing attack. He has a pair of good ends in Bob Mott and Bud Hesse to whom he can spot passes.

Mott has won all conference recognition for his wing work and Hesse is a third year starter at the right flank.

Armstrong To Battle Zivic

Hammerin' Henry Fights Way Back Up Ladder.

By LAWTON CARVER
NEW YORK —(INS)—A little while ago there was considerable hollering among the more light-eating pugilists following over Henry Armstrong's proposed comeback. It was pointed out at great length that when Fritz Zivic took the last of the little Negro's three titles, then scored a knockout in a return match, it meant the end of a great figure as things are measured by the sometimes loose standards of the cauliflower industry, so-called.

It meant that the bull-necked winner of the feather, lightweight and welterweight crowns, and holder of same all at one time had lost the tremendous stamina that made him unique and might lose his eyesight too if he got himself punched around much more.

His brows had been battered into gobs of scar-tissue that made the merest flick of a glove almost like a saber-slash. The time when he didn't have any scar tissue and when you couldn't pop him in the eye anyhow long since had passed.

But with one thing and another he managed to leave himself very short in the reach, or practically broke and then he announced the comeback that caused those who had known and watched him in better days to say he shouldn't be allowed in the ring any more.

Armstrong's reply in the last few months has been to fight himself back into the middle of the national spotlight, and on next Monday night he will get the answer as to how far he is going along the comeback trail. On that date at San Francisco he will meet—guess Fritz Zivic.

Like Armstrong, Zivic is old and has been fighting up and down the land with gloves since shortly after he laid aside his market in keeping with the Grant and Lee pact at Appomattox.

Yes, Guess Dutton Wins It

Now if we were having a contest on high kicks, we'd have to give the nod to Bill Dutton, left, Pitt halfback star, for he's up there higher than his teammate and replacement, Tony DiMatteo, right. The Pitt boys are just loosening up for the tough games to come.

Washington Owner Wants Revenge Over Chicago Bears

By JACK CUDDY
NEW YORK —(CP)—George Preston Marshall, a symphony in autumnal brown, did an off-to-Buffalo shuffle in the dressing room and then pounced up and down, slapping back backs as gleefully as if his Washington Redskins had just won the national league title—or at least the eastern division crown.

His brawny, naked Braves were in the process of showering and garbing after bowling over Brooklyn's football Dodgers, 21 to 10, a score that does not even hint at the ease with which victory was achieved before 25,635 disappointed fans at Ebbets field.

This Redskins triumph—an ultra-important one if Owner Marshall's antics were a true indicator—gave Washington a tighter hold on the eastern division lead, with four wins against one loss, and heightened the debonair ex-actor's hopes of obtaining vengeance against the mighty Chicago Bears in a December playoff for the league title.

"Gorgeous George," the "sartorially splendidous" Redskin prey, still has a galling grievance against the Bears, who are booming toward their third straight western crown and possible league championship. In 1940, the Bears blighted Marshall's life by burying the Redskins, 73 to 0, in the playoff. It was the worst rout in playoff history.

Last season the Redskins dropped to third place in the final eastern standing and consequently had no title tilt with George Halas' Bears. But this year the Washington outlook is different with Marshall insisting he has the best team in his 11 years with the National league.

He told reporters in the dressing room yesterday, "I say this is my best squad because we have such fine reserves that we actually have two teams, one just as good as the other. We've never had a combination like that before—when my Redskins were at Washington or at Boston."

Marshall t-a-l-k-s of the eastern teams, but everyone knows he's gunning for western beef meat. We believe Washington's "wet wash magnate" would be willing to give up his laundry empire—including all 53 stores—if Messrs. Baugh, Todd and company, could kick the Halas Bruins in December. He'd probably be glad to toes in the jewels of his life, Corinne Griffith of the silent movies.

Hence, you can appreciate his elation at his club's impressive showing against the Flatbushers, who were rated the Redskins' most formidable rival for eastern honors. You can appreciate his gushing exultation: "Did you ever see anything like Baugh and Todd out there today? Hot as firecrackers! Wonderful! Wonderful!"

End Don Curvian, who made Boston College's touchdown and played great defensive ball in a 7-6 upset of North Carolina Pre-Flight.

Hurryin' Hank Mazur, Army's siege gun in a 34-6 triumph over Columbia.

Halfback Hilly Hillenbrand, whose passes netted three touchdowns in Indiana's 19-7 conquest of Pitt.

Jack Wink, sophomore quarterback whose 101-yard run provided Wisconsin with its winning touchdown over Great Lakes, 13-7.

M'DONALD APPOINTED WILDCAT CAGE COACH

SPRINGFIELD —(INS)—Jim McDonald, former Springfield high school and Ohio State university athlete, today was named basketball coach at Springfield high to succeed Elwood Pitzer, who recently entered the armed forces. McDonald is now in his third year as football coach at Springfield.

Have Trouble With Passports

Ten Cleveland Barons Unable to Cross Border.

DETROIT —(INS)—Cleveland Barons officials today hoped to have all their players ready to cross the Canadian border Wednesday in order to be set for Saturday's return battle with the Detroit Red Wings who set the Cleveland Iceers back last night 5-2 in an exhibition games.

Although President Al Sutphin announced that he has signed 23 players, ten of them members of last year's team and the others newcomers from either the amateur ranks of the Barons' Minneapolis farm club, Coach Bill Cook faced the Wings last night lacking seven members of his regular squad because some of the players' passports are not yet in order.

Borrowing three forwards from the Indianapolis Capitals, Cook sent his charges in against the team which was runner-up for the Stanley cup and world championship last year.

Bill Beveridge, the Cleveland goalie who chalked up a fine record last season completely blanked the wing attack for one period, but some tough shots in the second made the score 4-0.

In the final period the Barons scored when Rookie Tommy Burlington shot a fast one through Ralph Almas and later when Norm Locking, Cleveland left wing star, back-handed a shot into the net at 9:27.

In the last minute of play Carl Luscombe bagged a fifth for Detroit making it 5-2.

Bertelli, Fekete Lead Nation's Grid Greats.

NEW YORK —(UP)—College gridiron stars of the week-end: Angeli Bertelli, Notre Dame halfback, who kicked four points, passed for a touchdown and set up another in a 23-0 win over Iowa's Cadets.

Lean Gene Fekete, Ohio State's sophomore fullback who scored 13 points in a 26-0 win over Purdue.

Halfback Mickey McCordle, whose broken field running and two touchdowns sparked USC to a 26-12 upset of Washington State.

Bobbie Steuber, Missouri halfback who scored four times as the Big Six champs beat Kansas State, 46-2.

End Don Curvian, who made Boston College's touchdown and played great defensive ball in a 7-6 upset of North Carolina Pre-Flight.

Hurryin' Hank Mazur, Army's siege gun in a 34-6 triumph over Columbia.

Halfback Hilly Hillenbrand, whose passes netted three touchdowns in Indiana's 19-7 conquest of Pitt.

Jack Wink, sophomore quarterback whose 101-yard run provided Wisconsin with its winning touchdown over Great Lakes, 13-7.

Only 12 Major Teams Keep Perfect Records

Iowa Seahawks Lead Group Hitting Defeat For First Time This Fall

By OSCAR FRALEY
NEW YORK —(UP)—Ohio State's Buckeyes and Alabama's Crimson Tide stood at the top of the national collegiate football heap today after another unpredictable week-end which left only 12 major teams with perfect records.

The list of unbeaten and untied clubs was slashed by more than one-third Saturday as seven teams suffered their first setbacks to leave the following clubs with clean slates:

East—Army, Boston college, Brown and Syracuse.
South—Alabama, Georgia, Georgia Tech and TCU.
Mid-west—Ohio State and Illinois.
West—Santa Clara and California Pre-Flight.

Six others undefeated but tied at Washington, North Carolina, Wisconsin, Georgetown, Penn State and Georgia Pre-Flight.

Going down to defeat for the first time were the Iowa Naval Cadets, Colgate, Tennessee, Vanderbilt, North Carolina Pre-Flight, Duquesne and Washington State.

Notre Dame turned in the biggest upset when, sparked by accurate Angelo Bertelli, it crushed the "unbeatable" Iowa Cadets, 28-0. Previously defeated and tied, the Fighting Irish hammered their way back into the national picture with a feat that Kansas, Northwestern, Minnesota and Michigan had failed to accomplish.

Other form reversals saw twice-defeated Duke blast unbeaten Colgate, 34-0; battered Mississippi State wallop undefeated Vanderbilt, 35-0, Boston college maintain its record with a 7-6 win over North Carolina Pre-Flight; Wisconsin rally to whip favored Great Lakes, 13-7. North Carolina hand Duquesne its first setback in two years, 13-6. Southern California, beaten twice and tied once, and Washington State's victory march, 26-12, and underdog Princeton deadlock Penn's Ivy league crusher, 6-6.

Alabama rolled to its fourth win by defeating Tennessee, 8-0, in the top game of the south. Other Southeastern conference clashes had Georgia romping over Tulane, 40-0, LSU stopping Mississippi, 21-7, and Mississippi State halting Vanderbilt. Georgia Tech breezed past Davidson, 33-0, VPI tied favored Kentucky, 21-21, and in the Southwest TCU continued to set the pace with a 7-2 win over the Aggies, while Baylor stopped Texas Tech, 14-7, and Texas polished off Arkansas, 47-6.

Ohio State rolled on with a 26-0 triumph over Purdue as their Big 10 battle saw Illinois outlast Iowa, 12-7, and Michigan pound Northwestern, 34-6. Minnesota came back with a 15-2 win over Nebraska and Marquette downed Michigan State, 28-7.

Santa Clara, an independent, scored its third victory over Pacific coast conference teams by halting Oregon State, 7-0. Other circuit victories, in addition to USC's upset of Washington State, saw UCLA batter California, 21-0; Stanford trim Idaho, 54-7, and Washington bump Montana, 35-0.

Army and Boston college battled for eastern honors, the Cadets whipping Columbia, 34-6, as the Eagles bested the Pre-Flighters. Navy stopped Yale, 13-6, Dartmouth conquered Harvard, 14-7. Syracuse routed Holy Cross, 19-0. Fordham topped West Virginia, 23-14; Cornell played Penn State to a scoreless deadlock; Indiana bested Pitt, 19-7; Villanova defeated Florida, 13-3, and Georgetown was held to a 6-6 tie by Auburn.

PASSING DREAM

CHAPTER XXIV
In the car Temple turned her head and looked at McCormick through the misty veil of an absurd little black hat.

He chuckled. "I'm not difficult, Temple. I'm so uncomplimentary a person that people insist on making me complex. A lawyer, you see, takes a certain pride in presenting a good case even when he knows he stands a good chance of losing it. A friend of mine took a case to the supreme court recently. He lost it, but he did go before the supreme court."

She smiled, the wrinkles deepening around his eyes. "The court is still in session."

She heard the words again in a large, flower-filled room in an old, dignified house in Alexandria. She heard them from the lips of a bishop who was saying them to a lovely older woman and to a tall, distinguished man . . . And the roses in the room gave generously of their fragrance; the candles on the improvised altar flickered with grace upon the people gathered there.

The words . . . She heard them much more distinctly today when they were not meant for her. She heard them with her eyes lowered so that Harry could not see her tears. She heard them with regret and with her mind ready to admit the truth she would not admit before.

Jud and she had not the right to take their love like thieves in the night and sneak away with it. They had dishonored it now to let themselves be known as free when they were not free . . . She tried to make it right for them, to make excuses for them, but the words now being said told her . . . She and Jud could never have this. They could never anticipate the first night of their marriage again . . . To sneak away like thieves with their love had made her a wife for three days; now her wedding ring was locked away.

It had been wrong to rush love and to take it in one large, bite . . . Why had they not had the strength and the foresight to wait until the words could have been said over them in beauty and dignity? Why had they turned their love into a secret marriage, a war marriage? Regrets . . . Only a little while ago she had said she had no regrets. In Florida she had felt that immense, dreary sadness that is the forerunner of deep regret.

She had been married before she had been ready for marriage. Temple was trembling. She could not stop it. Fearful that McCormick see it, she turned her head a little and looked at him. It was too late. He was looking at her, frowning, not with displeasure but with puzzled concern. She did not know that her look was an appeal that made him take her hand and hold it fast. She felt that she would surely die if she did not get out of this room.

When the ceremony was over, he said, "I'll be only a minute, Temple. Wait for me by the door."

She was waiting outside on the steps when he joined her.

"I thought you were going to faint," he said. "Are you all right?"

"All right. It was a little overpowering."

He took her arm and led her to the car.

"I don't want to take you home, but I shall if you'd rather."

"No, I don't want to go home."

"A cocktail and some food probably. I'm terribly sorry. I'd never have asked you to come if I'd known a wedding would upset you. You didn't tell me, I stood there and watched you go through hell. I don't know what it meant, but I felt responsible."

"It isn't your fault. It has nothing to do with you."

"I'm sure it hasn't. If I had, I wouldn't let you suffer."

"I can't tell you what it is. Please don't ask me. I know today that it has been dishonored enough. I won't dishonor it more by breaking my promise."

"I don't want you to break your promise for me, Temple. I'm not going to ask you what has you there in a ball of silence and suffering. I'm not entitled to any special privilege. My own silence for a year doesn't give me the right to expect anything from you. I probably deserve your contempt for crashing in on your unhappiness."

"You're on the outside of it. You can't come in."

"Thank you for telling me where I stand. But there are still cocktails and dinner, the court is still in session and it's quite a long while before my day is over."

He mentioned the name of an inn in Maryland. "Have you ever been there?"

She and Jud had often talked of going there.

"We'll go there. I don't want to take you to a place where he has taken you . . . That was meant kindly, Temple, however it sounds."

They had cocktails in what once had been the music room of a country house. It was still a music room, for the same furniture remained and a young man played the piano softly in a far corner and by a window. There was nothing in the room to suggest that cocktails were served to the public or that dinners were served in another room that once had been the drawing room of the family of this house.

Temple lifted her veil. She felt better. She had to feel better. She told herself. The room was lovely and quiet except for the soft music. Such a lovely room and soft music made you return life, made you love life and value it and cherish it whatever else lay deep and sore in your heart and mind.

Harry said, "I look at you with quiet pride, Temple. Don't mind that. This is a room where once people took their time about living and loving. It must be wonderful to be able to take your time about living, to live leisurely, to think things out before you say them, too look at things long and intimately and not have to get it all in one quick glance . . . Yes, I'm off the beam, as they say now. This morning I was speaking of action. But to have active days and to live in a room like this at night . . ."

"Yes, go on."

He smiled. "You want me to talk about myself, don't you? Because you want me to take you out of yourself, Temple. Very well, you asked for it. It's been a long time since I talked, since I've said anything of importance to myself. I've been giving commands and learning how to give other commands . . . I was once a little boy in Brooklyn, Temple. That little boy had parents for a time, two vital people who were excited about each other until the little of their too brief lives.

The little boy played and fought hard. When his parents died, he was passed on to his grandmother who was a tyrant. Women who are tyrants are usually disappointed women. There was a clash of wills. The little boy ran away several times until he became a big boy.

"Running away from home means living by your wits, picking up knowledge too old and heavy for your mind. But the little boy had a curious mind. He was also as stubborn as hell. He went up to a certain university without a penny in his pocket. He hitch-hiked his way there. He had played football in high school and his body had known the hard labor of a farm hand during the summer. He stayed at the university. They told him that he had made good. He believed it for a time. But it took a war for him to realize he had actually run away from violence and had accepted the university as a sanctuary against violence. He had outgrown violence, but he had not outgrown his curiosity."

"His grandmother died. When he went to see her, before she passed away, she wasn't a tyrant. She was a poor, disappointed old lady who had been touchingly proud of the boy in her last years. That he learned tolerance . . . There's not much more to add except that he's in a fight again which isn't kid stuff."

"There was a girl . . . I saw her first in his class. He'd always been rigid in disciplining himself, were pretty girls in his classes were concerned. But this girl had eyes he remembered, a body he remembered and a mind that seemed to challenge his own curling mind. He had to wait for her. She was young and mixed-up and everything was going wrong with her. He had to take the chance that he wouldn't wait too long."

"Then that's the tragedy of his story. He waited too long."

"Temple, you're too young for anything to be too late for you."

"What has being young got to do with it?"

"A mistake? You could call it a passing dream."

They were rather long at dinner.

When they were driving back to Washington, he said, "I like you for no pretending. Women, unlike most men, are able to cover their feelings so well. They can be tearing apart inside, but they always feel that they owe gaiety and chatter to a man who takes them out to dinner. When am I going to see you again?"

"You are not going to see me again, Harry."

He turned his head and smiled at her. "I'll use a woman's trick then. They get away with anything on their birthdays. December the seventh happens to be mine and you surely are not going to let me have my dinner alone that day. It comes on Sunday and we'll make it an afternoon dinner because I've got to show up at a cocktail party later. Is it a date?"

She smiled at him, a funny, puzzled little smile. "It isn't fair to take advantage of my sentimental feelings over birthdays and anniversaries. At home all those dates were always celebrated."

"It's a date then."

She had felt the tears of loneliness and longing. Tonight she felt the tears of regret.

She knew that the heart had gone out of it when she tried to write Jud that night and knew that she was only making black marks on clean white paper. When had it happened? It had not happened today or yesterday. It had begun to happen when she had stepped from the train in Florida.

Since then each time she had told herself that she loved him she had been trying to convince herself that nothing had changed. She would never convince herself that what they had had was not good and sweet, tender and ar-

District Court, Southern District of Ohio, at Cleveland, Ohio, for an order compelling the above named parties to file a plan of reorganization of the above named companies.

"I'm not at all frightened," the bride said. "What difference does it make where I get married, as long as I'm marrying the right man?"

Said the bridegroom, an apprentice undertaker:

"We didn't have much time to get ready. Mr. Mulligan (H. B. Mulligan, the undertaker) said why not use his funeral chapel?" So we did.

Lupper explained that he was due to join the navy as a pharmacist's mate, third class.

Ushers were undertakers' assistants.

GRASSHOPPERS GOBBLE TREES

SAN JOSE, Cal.—(U.P.)—So far no man-eating grasshoppers have been reported here, but conservationist D. W. Dresbach has sent in a report to the Chamber of Commerce indicating tree-eating ones aplenty.

The report advised the chamber that last year's efforts to reforest the barren eastern hills of Santa Clara county, known as the Mount Hamilton range, have been entirely frustrated by grasshoppers, which came this year and ate the young blue oak, incense cedar, black locust and cork bark trees, which were just getting a nice start.

SCRAP METAL DRIVE EASES STEEL SUPPLY

Near Capacity Production
Assured, Some Winter
Reserves Laid Up

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK—Price trends were indecisive and narrow in today's early stock market dealings.

Modest gains were posted at the opening by Bethlehem Steel, American Can, Sears Roebuck and Texas Co., while Anaconda, Montgomery Ward, U. S. Rubber and great northern sold at slightly lower levels.

Market analysts noted in the weekly summary of the magazine "Steel" the comment that steel mill scrap supplies were considerably more comfortable as a result of the metal salvage campaign.

"Most steelmakers," said the review, now have sufficient scrap for as near capacity production as furnace conditions will allow and in some cases reserves are being laid down for winter use."

GERMANS GAIN AT STALINGRAD AT USUAL COST

Reds Continue to Take Heavy Toll of Enemy as Fight For City Rages on.

Nazi soldiers gave up their lives for Adolf Hitler's unfulfilled dream of taking this sturdy citadel on the Volga. But the city, now in the 36th day of siege, was still in grave danger.

Once again the Germans were reverting to frontal assaults. The Russians reported they destroyed 45 German tanks in the course of bitter fighting, 17 of them in a furious battle for possession of a factory, probably the Red Baricade gun works.

It was in this factory area that the Germans earlier had driven a wedge into the Russian positions. Yesterday, the Russians said 1,000 Nazi officers and men were killed in a costly and unsuccessful attempt to widen this advantage. (The Berlin radio reported last night that "an outstanding effort to get winter equipment to German troops in Eastern Europe to all practical purposes was already completed.") Apparently with bitter recollections of last winter's suffering by German troops, the radio announcer said "the German armies this time have been made absolutely safe against all surprises of even the abnormally cold Russian winter."

Warns of RAF Blows At Dutch Rail Lines

LONDON—(AP)—Allied bombers intend to disorganize the Nazi transportation system in Holland by smashing at railroad yards and canal shipping. The Netherlands government-in-exile warned the home population last night as the lightning-like RAF raid on the Schneider armament works in occupied France emphasized anew the tremendous power and possibilities of the Allied air arm.

Dutch railway workers were warned to stop work immediately when air raid alarms sounded and civilians were advised not to use railway trains during the evening hours.

"The German transportation system is overworked, with the result that weak spots have developed in the enemy's war organization," the broadcast statement of the government-in-exile said. "The Allies know these weak spots. They must strike as hard as they can to hasten the end of the war."

The statement acknowledged that the attacks would increase the difficulties of the home population, but said it was counting on approval of the measures and added: "The Allies will, of course, spare the civilian population as much as possible."

Saturday's flight of 94 heavily loaded RAF Lancaster bombers to the Schneider works at Le Creusot, occupied France, and the precise and devastating seven-minute attack on that important target was discussed enthusiastically here today as a new advance in Allied bombing technique.

The four-motored Lancasters, with no fighter escort, depended on surprise for the success of their mission. They approached the target from a tree-top height and dodged all but the smallest towns on the way. The bombs were dropped just at dusk so the return home could be made under the cover of darkness.

The Lancasters met little opposition and lost only one plane as compared to four U. S. bombers lost on the Lille raid on Oct. 9.

20 English Towns Bombed By Nazis

LONDON—(AP)—German air raiders bombed and strafed about 20 East Anglian towns and gave London three daylight alerts today in the greatest enemy aerial activity in months.

At least eight persons were killed in the raids. Several were injured, and some damage was caused. Two raiders were shot down.

The Nazi planes took advantage of low-hanging clouds to carry out hit-and-run attacks.

Sirens wailed three alarms within two hours in London, reminding residents of the Battle of Britain, but no bombs fell within the city itself.

On the outskirts, however, anti-aircraft guns were in action and the drone of motors and chatter of machine guns could be heard above London, indicating that aerial battles were being fought in or above the clouds.

One of the raiders, a Junkers 88, was shot down in flames over an East Anglian town, killing the crew.

Four bombs fell on a town on London's outskirts.

Says U. S. Land Troops Reach Syria

LONDON—(IS)—The German radio said today that the first United States troops, other than flying service personnel, have arrived in Damascus, capital of Syria.

The broadcast, heard by Reuters (British) News Agency, added that additional ground crews were arriving in Damascus and taking over an increasing number of airdromes.

his (or her) own home, nor drink water of milk obtained from any but definitely approved sources. Immunization checks are urged and since these are effective for two years, and not more than three years, persons should be sure of their present condition although they may have undergone previous immunization treatment."

Any water supply, raw and uncooked vegetables and unpasteurized milk or milk from any source not bearing the health department's approval are definitely warned against.

No new suspected cases of fever were listed today and Dr. Wild is of the opinion that the threatened epidemic might now be checked although a long incubation period of the typhoid germ makes such prediction hazardous, he said.

Mrs. Mary Wilkinson, county nurse, is devoting virtually her full time to the Ontario region.

SENATE DRAFT OK DUE TUESDAY

Bill Expected To Be Ready For FDR's Signature By End of Week.

amendment to the bill which would establish prohibition zones around all army and navy establishments. Dry organizations are campaigning vigorously for such a provision, although the war department has not shown any particular liking for the plan.

The senate military affairs committee today files its formal report on the draft bill which it unanimously approved last Friday. Its version, which conforms more closely to army and selective service recommendations than the house version, merely lowers the minimum draft age from 20 to 18 and provides special temporary deferments for high school students called up during the second half of the current academic year. The house bill extends that deferment clause to college as well as high school students.

The house measure also sets up an elaborate "draft priority" system which would permit the induction of married men in a given state until all supplies of single men have been exhausted and would prevent the induction of men with children until all childless married men have been called. Under the present system, draft quotas are based on the county unit, and one local board may be forced to induct married men to meet its calls while another board has ample reserves of single men.

Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director, strenuously objected to that provision of the house bill on grounds it would upset draft schedules between now and Dec. 1, when the 18-19 group will be "processed" and ready for induction. The November draft call is estimated to include 400,000 married men with wives only.

The priority provision is expected to find some support in the senate where Sen. Robert A. Taft, (R., O.), has long been an advocate of national uniformity in draft quotas to eliminate inequalities between different boards.

Barkley, however, predicted that the senate would "perfect its own bill and substitute it for the house bill," leaving differences to be ironed out in conference between the two houses.

because a stomach disease has rendered him unfit for military service.

Only a few days after Rommel's presence in Berlin, where he sat on the official platform while Hitler delivered his Nazi winter relief speech at the sportsplatz, was announced, Axis radios said he was back in Egypt.

1943 German's Last Chance, Says Goebbels

BERLIN (From German broadcasts)—(AP)—Propaganda Minister Goebbels declared in a speech at Munich yesterday that the coming year was Germany's "last but at the same time biggest chance" for victory.

"This year," he said, "we must take the last but at the same time biggest chance in our national history. We are fighting for our very existence. We will never have a more favorable opportunity than we have today."

to answer German calls for manpower in order to avoid "fresh painful military action and avert new catastrophes."

In Norway, dispatches from Sweden said, the Germans have ordered all Americans placed under arrest, presumably to prevent their working with Norwegian patriots engaged in sabotage.

In Holland the Germans were reported to have executed 15 more Dutchmen for recent acts of sabotage and were said to be speeding a mass evacuation of the population from coastal areas where invader defenses are being strengthened.

From the Vichy radio came a report that Karl Hermann Frank, German secretary of state for Bohemia and Moravia, had ordered the relatives of "all Czech agitators who have taken refuge in London" be sent to concentration camps. Frank warned the Czechs that wholesale executions have not wiped out the "blood debt" they owe as a result of the assassination of Reinhard Heydrich, Gestapo chief.

This ominous statement was followed by a Reuters dispatch from Zurich reporting that seven more Czechs had been executed at France.

3,000 Evacuated From Jersey Town In Test Maneuver

CAMDEN, N. J.—(AP)—The mass evacuation of 3,000 civilians from this industrial center, the greatest maneuver of its kind in the nation's history, was hailed today as a "completely successful performance of a difficult job."

Mayor George E. Brunner made that appraisal of yesterday's five-hour evacuation test.

As the first "bombs" crashed at 11 a. m. Sunday an army of civilian defense workers and coast guardsmen began the pre-arranged task of evacuating "casualties" of this city of 200,000 to adjoining territories.

So realistic was the demonstration that one woman suffered a heart attack and three others collapsed of exhaustion.

With the sounding of the all-clear signal at 3:05 p. m. the defense workers returned the evacuees to their homes. The test was completed within an hour after the all-clear had sounded.

Stressing that only results in battle provide valid standards of criticism, the report suggested no full appraisal of our planes will be possible "until the war has been won."

It told how alternate superiority of the United States and Great Britain in various types gave the United Nations, as a team, a better choice of weapons than the enemy.

It declared of the future that "the United States aircraft industry and services are in an orderly

ELEVEN DIE IN BOMBER CRASH

Four-Motored Plane Hits New Mexico Mountain Peak.

DES MOINES, N. M.—(INS)—Members of a rescue party reported today that 11 officers and men were killed in the crash of a four-motored army bomber on a high peak of the Sierra Grand range three miles east of Des Moines.

Officials withheld the names of the victims until the next of kin had been notified.

The plane was said to have left Rapid City, S. D., for an unannounced destination. It was reported as missing until two sheepherders discovered its wreckage after first sighting a fire on the mountainside early Saturday morning.

BOMBERS BLAST ENEMY SUPPLY SHIPS, PLANES

Seek to Disorganize Attack on Guadalcanal; Air Field Still in Use.

ican-held airfield on Guadalcanal was still intact despite recent bombardments by enemy surface vessels and air raids was seen in yesterday's navy communique which reported that army Flying Fortresses and navy and marine corps aircraft had repeatedly attacked enemy troops assembled in force on the northwest end of Guadalcanal.

The navy said United States fighters and anti-aircraft batteries completely wiped out a flight of 14 enemy bombers that raided the airfield with an escort of eight fighters on Saturday morning. Two of the fighters also were downed.

The same afternoon, however, another group of about 15 enemy bombers and a number of fighters carried out a second raid with better luck, for them. Only one enemy bomber was reported probably destroyed. United States losses in the two raids consisted of one plane.

MacArthur's headquarters reported that the tempo of ground fighting in New Guinea was stepping up as Australian jungle troops began encountering resistance in their push toward the Japanese base at Kokoda.

Closer home, in the Aleutian island area, the navy reported two Japanese destroyers were hit during a low altitude attack by army "marauder" bombers on Oct. 16. When last seen northwest of Kiska, both destroyers were on fire and being abandoned by their crews.

Reports Massing Of 250,000 Japs

LONDON—(INS)—A dispatch from Pearl Harbor to the News Chronicle today said it was estimated that 250,000 Japanese troops are concentrated at Truk island, in the Caroline group, ready to follow up any Japanese naval victory in the Solomons.

Truk island lies about 1,000 miles northwest of Guadalcanal, scene of the principal action in the Solomons.

The Chronicle Dispatch said it was impossible to tell, however, whether the Japanese concentration at Truk meant that the Nip-

Fortresses Dump 22 Tons of Bombs on Japs

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA—(Delayed)—(AP)—Allied airmen hurled their second big assault in as many days against Japanese bases in an offensive aimed at easing enemy pressure on American forces fighting on Guadalcanal.

Flying fortresses manned by Americans struck heavily at a big concentration of Japanese ships at Buin and probable hits were reported on three Japanese cruisers and a number of other vessels. Seven flying boats were destroyed. Pilot Lieut. William Thompson of Canton, O., took part in the raid.

The raiders loosed 22 tons of bombs, including many 1,000-pounders, despite unfavorable weather and one of the strongest concentrations of anti-aircraft fire ever tossed up by the enemy.

These raids followed closely on smashing blows yesterday at Rabaul, in New Britain, Buin and Buka, in the Solomons, and Salamaua, New Guinea—all important sources of air support, reinforcements and supplies for Japanese forces at Guadalcanal.

For nearly an hour and a half Major Felix Hardison of Springfield, Mo., hovered over Buin during the fiery attack there.

"Bomb runs were made difficult by the wind and weather which thickened gradually until at the last part of the mission thunderheads rolled over the target," he said. "Visibility became so poor that we dropped low once but got cruiser ack-ack and had to climb back. When leaving we saw the ship smoking badly."

Lieut. Ed Scott of Hollandale, Miss., was returning home when he saw some seaplanes along the shore at Faisie.

"I could see that some of them were four-motored planes so I unloaded a string of bombs down the middle," he said. "Although they didn't burn, there certainly were enough holes so that they won't fly without some patching."

The subsequent chronology of the Kadens' case Hoover listed as: Aug. 21—Kidnapped a couple entering an automobile at a Detroit parking lot, bound and gagged them and drove them to Chicago, stopping along the way twice to rape the girl. The couple was released in Chicago.

Aug. 27—Robbed a mail truck in Chicago of approximately $1,400 while wearing the stolen uniform of a policeman.

Sept. 15—Abandoned an automobile stolen Aug. 25 after a gun battle with a deputy sheriff at Bucyrus, O.

Sept. 23—Robbed another couple in Chicago, bound them and drove them to Winnetka, a Chicago suburb, where they escaped.

Sept. 26—Robbed another couple in Chicago, bound them and raped the girl.

Sept. 28—Escaped after wounding in the chest a Chicago police officer who sought to question him about the car which he was using, the automobile having been stolen the day before. A federal charge of kidnapping was filed against him in Detroit.

Oct. 1—Raped a girl in Detroit. Oct. 4—Believed to have stolen a car in a robbery at Flanagan, Ill., and to have used it to escape after robbing a Chicago filling station.

Oct. 6—Held up a third Chicago couple, bound them and raped the girl.

Oct. 7—Robbed another Chicagoan, took $120 and an automobile.

Oct. 8—Boarded a train for Denver.

Hoover said Kadens had boasted he would not be alive on Oct. 22, his birthday.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1942.

Battles are not won by soldiers or sailors who think first of their personal safety. Wars are not won by people who are concerned primarily with their own comfort, their own convenience, their own pocketbooks. —Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Inconveniences Are Not Hardships

WELL INSIDE of a year after the attack on Pearl Harbor, which awakened some Americans to their first realization of the imminence of war, gradual but steadily increasing adjustment to changes necessitated by the war is evident throughout the country.

Actual hardships, such as have already been experienced in England, Russia, China and the occupied countries of Europe, still seem far away from the United States, but inconveniences and minor restraints are being felt and it is reasonable to assume that these will increase rather rapidly from now on.

Need for military supplies—which naturally has first call—has resulted in shortage of supplies for civilian use, and it will require an improvement in governmental methods to maintain sufficient farm production to meet food needs and to equalize distribution of essential commodities in a fair way.

Scarcity of rubber, scrap metal, fuel oil, sugar, meat, coffee, and many other items which Americans were accustomed to accept as a matter-of-course, reveals the scant preparedness of the United States for war—probably the most glaring example of national dumbness being the continuous shipment of scrap metal to 'foresighted' Japan long after competent observers had warned that war was inevitable.

Gasoline rationing, to become effective November 22, is designed to conserve tires for necessary driving, as is also the prescribed limit of 35 miles an hour—although this speed reduction has already resulted in saving several thousand lives by cutting down traffic accidents.

Meat supplies, particularly beef and pork, are considerably reduced but restriction of individual use will probably continue voluntary for the remainder of this year. Rationing of sugar will continue, but with allowances ample for all reasonable needs. Coffee may be scarce or plentiful, depending on whether it can be brought here from Brazil, which is anxious to send all we need.

If inclined to complain about shortages or restrictions in this country, because of the war, a changed attitude may come about after reading of deprivations being suffered by people in other of the United Nations, and in countries that have been over-run by the Axis. And, it may as well be realized, the war is going to be more keenly felt in every American home within another few months.

Halloween Observance Planned

RETURN to Mansfield's traditional way of observing Halloween will be welcomed as a diversion from the serious tone that has pervaded the city in recent weeks and months as a result of departure of many of the city's young men for military service.

The slogan, "Help Hunt Halloween," which was familiar for more than a quarter of a century, is also to be revived for this occasion, with parade of masked marchers, and other festivities, that will be reminiscent of occasions on which the late Fred Hunt was the guiding genius in similar community events.

Co-operation by the American Legion, and plans to make the sale of war savings bonds a special activity during the evening, fit in with what will be quite generally regarded as proper observance of Halloween in wartime.

Drop In National Fire Losses

FIGURES just released by the National Board of Fire Underwriters show that the total estimated fire loss for the first eight months of this year was $211,172,000, as compared with $211,773,000 for the same period last year.

When the vast industrial expansion that has taken place in war industries during the past year is considered, in conjunction with the millions of inexperienced persons who have gone to work in such industries at jobs with which they were unfamiliar a year ago, this record of a drop in fire losses for the past eight months is remarkable. It speaks volumes for the fire prevention activities that have been carried on by civilian as well as official bodies. Also it indicates that our dreaded enemy, the saboteur, has been well controlled and that fire depredations have been held to a minimum.

The public deserves a large share of credit for co-operating in all manner of fire prevention activities. It is well to call attention to this drop in fire losses to let people know that their watchfulness has been effective during a critical period when billions of dollars worth of vital supplies have been subject to fire menace.

This record should encourage every citizen to continue and increase his efforts to prevent fire, as by so doing he is playing a vital part in the war.

War Theme Hits the Pulp

THE PULP love story has discovered the war. Leo Margulies, editor of a group of over thirty thrilling magazines, lists 15 characters suitable for heroines of love stories of the present time. The heroine may be a U. S. O. hostess, for example. It's too bad to spoil this one by knowing how many U. S. O. hostesses are over forty, with boys of their own and no marital worries.

Next is the society or home girl conducting social gatherings for service men. She might be a W.A.C. daughter of a service-party chaperon, member of a social group acting as dance partners for service parties, or a volunteer worker doing social work with families of workers, soldiers or sailors. She might work in a canteen, help out at a day nursery for children of war workers, engage in health service or emergency and air raid work. She could be a nurse's aide, laboratory assistant, nutritionist assistant, club worker selling war bonds. The important point is that no heroine is any good for the pulps nowadays unless she helps to win the war.

Pulverized sugar worked into a wad of used chewing gum is said to restore sweetness, and a trace of mint—or pepsin—can be added, if desired.

The OWI has suspended publication of 239 government publications—and, strange as it may seem, none appears to have been seriously missed.

NO SHORTAGE OF PAUL REVERES

Can Production Meet War Needs?

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—We can't have more men than we need, to fight the Axis, but we can have more than we can keep adequately supplied with arms and ammunition to do their fighting with.

A considerable proportion of this productive work can be handled by women, by children under military age, and by older persons or semi-invalids who aren't fit for outright belligerence. Nevertheless, an industrial force has to include quite a nucleus of formidable male citizens whom front line commanders are very covetous of.

Consequently there's an everlasting tendency to scoop these eligibles in, as active combatants in the field, afloat or in the atmosphere.

It goes without saying that any country wants at least as many scrappers mobilized as any enemy country's able to oppose 'em with, and, if the enemy can be outnumbed, it's all the better.

That's on the supposition, though, that the numerically superior organization is equipped to account for itself effectively.

Under-armed, it's apt to be licked.

by a comparative few, with the machinery and projectiles to offset its minority.

Hence the question's constantly at issue in wartime:

How few men can industry possibly worry along on with no sacrifice of its productive capacity, versus how many can the army and navy conscript from productive ranks without limiting their own supplies of essentials?

Rivalry Is Keen.

The rivalry between production management and military demands is pretty keen, too, almost amounting to jealousy.

The nub of it is that too large an army to be practical is a possibility.

More men may be available but only at the expense of their total mechanical formidability.

Such a discussion's in progress now in Washington. I wouldn't say that it constitutes an argument, to the extent of being a real difference of opinion, but the matter's under careful consideration.

Our army's requirements, of course, exceed anything before in past history.

Gen. Brehon B. Somervell, its supply service chief, supplied the budget bureau with his estimates as to the funds it'll need for 1943.

Chairman Donald M. Nelson and Paul V. McNutt of the war production board and the manpower commission, respectively, raised the point that the army, in comparison with our imaginably attainable output, is getting too heavy. As it increases, its necessities increase, but the very thing that increases 'em (the draining of production manpower, which is responsible for the increase) has diminished the country's ability to supply 'em.

Fighting implements don't present the only problem.

Soldiers have to eat food and wear clothes as well as to man firearms, and the more of 'em there are, the more they eat and wear. Congress is beginning to dig into the subject.

Byrnes' Problem?

It may be one of the puzzles ex-Supreme Court Justice James F. Byrnes will have to tackle, as economic stabilization director.

Don Nelson and Paul McNutt are on the spot momentarily, however. General Somervell doesn't concern himself with such details at present. He simply states what the army must have and leaves Nelson and McNutt to do the calculating.

Timely Editorial

The Silver Crime.

As a result of the silver purchase policy forced on the treasury by a group of western senators and representatives in the early days of the New Deal, the treasury now has a vast hoard of silver that is being kept out of the war effort. The treasury can't sell it. The War Production Board can borrow it only on condition that it is put to such uses that, after the war it can be returned.

Crazy? That's too mild a word. When men are dying at the front for want of weapons that could be forged out of other metals released by putting this silver to industrial use, adherence to a silver policy that never was sound is today little short of murder.—Detroit Free Press.

Interpreting the War News

Japs Extol Achievements of Tojo In Effort to Bolster Home Front

—By GLENN BABB

GENERAL TOJO'S government is concerned about Japan's home front. Its agencies responsible for civilian morale have been working overtime the past week. Tokyo was in the throes of a week-long festival devoted to the deification of those who died on the battlefields of the Philippines, Malaya and the Indies.

Radio Tokyo broadcast thousands of words extolling the achievements of the Tojo regime, the excuse being Sunday's anniversary of its inauguration last year on the eve of, and as a preliminary to, Pearl Harbor.

There is no denying that Tojo and his sword-rattling clan have gone a long way in one year. And there is no false modesty in radio Tokyo's telling of it:

"No government in history has ever seen such rapid expansion of its complete or partial jurisdiction within one year. . . . No less than 120,000,000 people of different languages, races, culture and environment have been brought together in one gigantic community by Japan for the building of Greater East Asia."

But the interesting point is that so much of it should be thought necessary at this time in conjunction with religio-patriotic ceremonies appealing to the strongest emotions of the race. Obviously Japan is at a crisis of her Pacific war and her leaders feel the need of strengthening popular enthusiasm for the war effort.

It may be, of course, that some new adventure is in the making, such as the long awaited smash at Siberia or a thrust deeper into the southwest Pacific.

But circumstances suggest that the psychological preparation is for a different phase of the war.

one essentially defensive and therefore more difficult for the home front to endure. Already the Japanese people have been warned that the war will last for years—perhaps a hundred years, Tojo has said.

The great battle now joined in the Solomons does not alter this picture. No matter how it goes it cannot change the essential fact that Japan is fighting now primarily to hold spoils already won.

The festival of hero-deification in progress in Tokyo illustrates vividly the spiritual and psychological forces Japan's soldier leaders can invoke. Tokyo broadcasts describe great throngs worshipping at the empire's primary military temple, the Yasukuni shrine on Kudan hill, just across the moat from the palace of the son of heaven. There is no reason to doubt these accounts of popular response and emotion.

Blood Plasma, Enemy of Shock

(Editor's Note: The following article by Dr. Victor G. Heiser, medical consultant of the National Association of Manufacturers, throws further light on uses being made of the plasma secured from blood donors here and elsewhere throughout the country.)

HEMORRHAGE, shock, and infection are three great enemies of mankind that have given way all too slowly before the advancing front of medicine.

Of the three, shock has been perhaps the most insidious, the most difficult to treat.

Shock is a well-known killer in war and peace. Men have died of it while being treated for their wounds, as surgeons looked on helplessly.

But recently science has been able to combat shock with success. The magic is in giving the victim a transfusion of blood plasma, the liquid part of the human blood, to replace that lost in the peculiar condition of shock.

What Is a Shock?

Shock is a state of near-death that comes over a person as a result of severe injury or fright.

The nervous system of the person in shock receives such an "insult" that the nerves lose control over the blood vessels, which relax and fail to do their duty.

Blood pressure drops. The circulation stagnates, the blood collects in the abdomen, and the body becomes cold. The heart beats rapidly but weakly in its frantic effort to restore the circulation.

But worst of all, the liquid part of the blood itself begins to leak out through the walls of the blood vessels into the tissues.

Without bleeding in the ordinary sense, the blood nevertheless slowly seeps away.

Unless the leakage is stopped, or the lost plasma replaced, the near-death of shock may turn into real death.

Every "first-aid" and air-raid warden knows the immediate treatment for ordinary shock. But this is not enough in severe cases.

Life Saver In Blood Banks.

The blood liquid lost internally in shock must be replaced by a transfusion of the life-saving blood plasma, stored for just such emergencies in "blood banks."

Just as the production of vital war materials by American industry has increased many times over since Pearl Harbor, so has the nation's program for storing the precious liquid in blood banks.

Today there are 18 blood donor centers in the nation, with mobile units operating out of many of them. More are planned.

Whole communities are volunteering to give blood. The workers in industrial war plants volunteer en masse as blood donors.

30,000 Pints a Week.

Every week the Red Cross now draws a pint of blood, painlessly and harmlessly, from each of 30,000 patriotic U. S. citizens. The donated blood is treated to eliminate all but the plasma. Then it is stored, or shipped, in liquid form or as a dry powder, to distant battle areas and to civilian hospitals.

Every soldier and sailor on a fighting front, every industrial worker on the all-important production front, every civilian on the home front is benefited by the fact that, somewhere nearby, is a "blood bank" of life-saving blood plasma ready to help him cheat death in the event of shock.

Daily Bible Thought

Stand fast therefore in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free, and be not entangled again with the yoke of bondage.—Galatians 5:1.

A Farmer's Diary

In the Apple Tree

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE TREES were not so heavily loaded in the 20-acre orchard. Portions of the top had no apples, but occasionally a branch would bend to trail the grass beneath, so weighty was its load of scarlet fruit.

"What are the chances of picking apples here this year?" I asked my friend who owns the orchard.

"I'm needin' pickers," he said. "My son's at college and may get called to the war just anytime. My daughter's workin' in town and Mother and I have all the chores and the farming. Our hired man left for the navy last week. He was a good hand—handy with a hammer and nails. We fixed the basement of one of the barns for an apple storage before he left. But I don't just know who will pick the apples."

"My wife and I will help on Saturdays and in the late afternoons," I told him. "We'll want to get our winter apples later."

"That'll help some. Maybe some of the other neighbors will do the same," he suggested smiling. "That frost loosened 'em. A big blow would put 'em all down. Hope the weather'll hold!"

THE FOLLOWING Saturday we found the apple picking well under way. Already large piles of Delicious, Northern Spies, and Baldwins were beneath the trees. He gave us each a modern picking bag, with straps suspending the weight from the shoulders, and a folded bottom which permits the apples to be unloaded simply by lowering the folded open end into a basket. The apples slide down gently, and show no bruises. For best keeping, apples must be handled like eggs—carefully.

A laden tree of Spies was ours to pick. I climbed a tall light ladder, while my wife picked the drooping branches nearest the ground. The apples were large and firm, with the blush of autumnal bloom on their sheltered sides. I could hold only a single apple at a time and place it safely in the sack.

One had lodged within a crotch and burst from the rains. I held it in my hand and found it already mellow and still cool—just right for eating. When I bit into the blushing oval side, the crisp cells cracked and snapped with juice. The flavor was spicy and liquid, like essence of October sunshine. . . . Finally only the long thin core remained. I opened the secret places of the seeds and enjoyed their white oily bitterness. I stood on the short upper rungs of the ladder and looked at the fruit, that tangled about me, untouched by human hands. What marvelous eating pleasure—and what health insurance is sealed beneath the thin skin of this "poor man's fruit!"
